

Teenage racer set to kick off busy 2010 season

Dylan Presnell, of Sevierville, TN, is not your ordinary 14-year-old. The impressive young talent will drive the American Mountain Rentals/Race 101 Super Late Model in the PASS and CRA series along with other major events in 2010.

The likeable young man amazed the racing world scoring a dominant win in his inaugural super late model race last fall. He hopes momentum from his victory in Newport, Tennessee, will carry into 2010.

His season opens this Saturday in Dillon, South Carolina, when Presnell will drive his family-owned race car. Presnell is no stranger to attention. The honor roll student has always been among the youngest competitors regardless of the class. It's all part of his plan to achieve a career in motorsports.

"Age has never been a big deal for me in the race car," says Presnell. "If you treat the other racers with respect, then you can expect them to treat you the same way. My family supports my racing, and we have some great people around us."

Dylan will work with crew chief Tony Blanchard and his car chief Dinky Torbett this year. That combination of talent led to immediate success last year.

"I am excited for the race season to begin, and I look forward to representing American Mountain Rentals with the help of Race 101 and all of my family and fans," says Presnell.

Although his main focus will be with the Super Late Model, Dylan will race in select UARA touring series races. Presnell had a top-10 finish in one of 2009's most prestigious races, The World Crown 300.

"I think Dylan and Tony work great together," says Dylan's father Ken Presnell. "We're looking forward to having a great race season."
